“Over the years, Waste Management has made investments to put the waste we manage to reuse. In some case, that means recycling, while in other cases that means creating energy. At about 130 disposal sites, we use naturally-occurring landfill gas to power homes and businesses. Just recently, we even developed the technology to convert landfill gas into a fuel our fleet vehicles can run on.” ~Waste Management

Conservation and Palmetto Adhesives' Responsibility

Environmental conservation is an economic and social necessity. Reducing utility costs through energy and water conservation, recycling and reusing packaging materials, and reducing waste in every area of the company are essential. Over the years, the culture of resource conservation has grown with the company. Sustainability is not only about saving the planet; it is about

"At Palmetto Adhesives we are committed to the conservation of the environment and are doing our part to conserve energy, reduce waste, & protect our environment for the future. "

~ Tom Wilson, President/ CEO

protecting the environment for future generations. To sustain Palmetto Adhesives, we continue to reduce our environmental impact and ensure that our employees are healthy and happy while maintaining a strong economic base. Our passion for environmental and social responsibility provided the foundation for Palmetto Adhesive and helps ensure that our company will help in creating a healthy environment for generations to come.
